City Warned On Antennae Hazard To Life, Property

Commission Instructs Authority To Draw Ordinance Governing Antennae Erection

Curtis Chase, manager of the Florida Power and Light Glades District, appeared before the city commission Tuesday night asking the city to pass regulations and restrictions governing the erection of antennae and aerials within the city.

Chase told commissioners that he had noticed many vertical radio and television antennae in the city, many of which are located in the vicinity of main power lines.

"If these should fall on the lines they could cause a hazard to life and property and could interrupt electric power within the city," Chase said.

He suggested that the commission approve specifications on antennae that they be erected as well as possible.

Mayor Herman Close said that the city has written to West Palm Beach and Lake Worth requesting copies of their antennae regulations and that the Lake Worth code has been received.

Commissioners authorized City Inspector N. B. Willis and City Attorney Claude Jones to examine the code and draw an ordinance incorporating needed regulations.

Tom Pennington, Street Department superintendent, recommended the ordinance.

Disabled veterans have made more than 35,000,000 crepe paper poppies for the auxiliaries to sell, Mrs. Paff said.

The program has furnished employment for thousands of disabled veterans confined in hospitals or unable to do other work.

The flowers are life-like replicas of the European wild poppy memorialized in Col. John McCrae's poem, "In Flanders Field."

GLADES APPLIANCE CORP. OPENS HOME BUILDING PROGRAM

Glades Appliance Corporation began a home building program in Syda Heights Subdivision last week.

Construction was started on three homes which are for sale. According to W. W. Weeks, the homes will be sold for a small down payment with a mortgage financed through the Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association here.

Homes planned for the first group will include two bedrooms, utility porch and car port. Plans call for tubed siding on exterior walls and asbestos roofing.

Who They are can't be exactly determined. Following protests from local organizations and citizens, the State Road Department representatives and our County Commissioner met at the scene of the accident.

The local Chamber of Commerce thanked our Commissioner for whatever he did towards getting blinding lights on each end of the Six Mile Bridge.

They haven't been any fatal accidents since the lights were installed. BUT there were a half dozen or more deaths there the previous year, when the lights could have been installed. OR the money in the State Road Budget for this bridge could have been spent.

Cattle Show Opens Here With Over A Hundred Entries

City Boasts Air Of Western Rodeo As Cattlemen Gather From Eleven Counties

The city became a cattlemen's world yesterday with the opening of the two-day, fourth annual Southeast Florida Livestock Show and fair cattle sale at the Mayo Pavilion, Everglades Experiment Station.

Cattlemen and 4-H Club and FFA boys from the eleven counties represented had entered over 100 quality beef animals in the show competition by the deadline at 9 a. m. yesterday.

Market plan drawings on merchants' windows of Ferdinand and inviting everyone to the show, show posters displayed in public places and people wearing ten-gallon hats gave the city the air of a western rodeo.

M. U. Mounts, county agricultural agent, listed the probable entries as: Herefords, Velva Farms, Delray Beach, V. V. Cook, owner; Santa Gertrudis, Panola Farms, Ft. St. Louis, owner; Santa Gertrudis, Arthur Hancock, owner; Santa Gertrudis, Carl Ridge, Ft. AN IMPORTANT EVENT
It's important to know when people from eleven counties and distinguished visitors gather there especially when the purpose of their meeting is to show the high quality beet cattle which can be produced in the area.

In past years the Southeast Florida Livestock Show kept its boundaries at the Everglades Experiment Station and was almost forgotten and completely divorced from the city.

This year a last minute effort is being made to capitalize on the event and bring a little local color into it so that those who come will remember the area, the agricultural center that it is.

People in the business section and others have been asked to don cowboy hats for the occasion, and merchants have been contacted concerning appropriate window decorations and displays.

Although in the past the show also boasted of some of the finest animals in the state, there was a lethargy to it on the home front. So apparent was this local attitude that last year an Okla. chieftain commented in his paper on the lack of interest and participation of Belle Glade people.

The show started yesterday in the Mayo Pavilion and will continue through the fat cattle sale at 1:30 today. All those who have not gone to the show, whether they are cattlemen or not, should do so for educational purposes to see how one of the Glades newest industries has expanded to tremendous proportions and to display an area pride and interest.

It is not yet opportunity stalk by our door steps again and not.

The city's quota in the current American Cancer Society fund drive has been set at $500. Mrs. Imogene Fontaine, local chairman, reported.

Charles D. Pierce, Jr., chairman of the 1952 drive in the county, said the county quota has been raised from $12,000 to $13,850 because of the addition of new localities.

Said Mr. Pierce, "Cancer is a deadly disease which can personally touch the lives of the majority of our citizens. We want people to know that twenty-five per cent of ACS funds are devoted to a national research program to combat this disease and eventually find its cure, so that we may all live without fear."

Mr. Pierce explained that lay education in cancer detection and early diagnosis of cancer patients aboard the remainder of ACS funds.

active. In her Garden Club work she passed on her knowledge of growing methods and aroused enthusiasm for beautifying the growing city.

Influential in helping secure the land for Paradise Park from the County School Board, Mrs. Riedel planted many trees and shrubs there. One that remains is the large Ficus Benjamin south of the clubhouse.

She was one of the leaders in getting the Community Club House built, which was a joint project of the Garden Club and the Woman's Club in the early 1930's.

She secured the first rustic benches and picnic tables and assembled and varnished them for use in the park.

In addition to being instrumental in beautifying the growing city of Belle Glade, Mrs. Riedel furnished countless bouquets of flowers for those ill or shut-in. Weddings and home and church parties.

Besides devoting part of her time to flowers, she found time to be a member of the Girl Scout Council and was an active worker in the Community Methodist Church. For years she furnished the cut flowers for the Sunday services and was treasurer of the church women's organization, then called the Ladies Aid.

SHOOTIN' BLANKS

(Continued from Page One) their heads. However, this week a local gentleman, very close to this office, showed complete disregard and lack of appreciation for his wife's best spring frock, and the story came out only when he got an ache in his foot.

Apparently the gentleman in question had dusty shoes, and hit by a particularly meticulous mood, he decided that they should be shined immediately. He picked up a delicate, lavender frock belonging to his wife and proceeded to do the job thoroughly. The appearance of his shoes was greatly improved.

Later a nagging ache in his foot prompted investigation by the wife probably had been in the process of putting in the hem, and the needle was left hiding in the folds. As he vigorously dusted his footwear, part of the needle broke off, and in his shoe, thus the foot ache. No report was given of the head ache he suffered on discovery by the wife.

Robinson is a Tau Kappa Epsilon pledge, and Womack is serving the period before initiation into the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

4-H Club members made cocoa and salads on the program of the meeting Tuesday. Instructor Miss Hudson demonstrated how to make muffins. Next week the group again will concentrate on making different salads.

Delores Robbins, president, called the meeting to order, and Sandra Gove, secretary, called the roll.

Care will prevent many fires from starting. Fires which are deliberately set on lands of others should be brought to the attention of law enforcement officers.

SMATHERS' LETTER

(Continued from Page 1) shallow water shelf extending into the Gulf of Mexico. Our concern is soundly based: Florida has the longest coastline of any state in the union, and we have a tremendous stake which all our people have been trying to protect. Senator Holland and I have been engaged vigorously in this case on the Senate floor.

There are some excerpts of the debate by Senator Long and we which brought out some of our strong points:

Mr. Long. Does not the Senator think that those who tell us we need not worry about the Government's taking all these properties and nationalizing various other things are, in many respects, the same gentlemen who approve the Government's taking over the practice of medicine, the Government's extended powers into the field of public power, the regulation of the production of fuels and various other things, and extending its power into the field of agriculture and, in the estimation of some of us, practically socializing agriculture? They say, "Do not let us worry about it; that is not our intention." But there are those who believe that the Government is doing just that in many fields.

Mr. Smathers. I agree with the Senator from Louisiana. I cannot understand how any person who believes in article 10 of the Bill of Rights, who believes the teachings of Jefferson, Madison and other great founders of our Government can vote for this resolution.

Effort seems to have been made to confuse the issue by making it appear that the Holland substitute would surrender the Federal Government's paramount rights of navigation and defense. Nothing could be further from the fact. Ownership of the soil has nothing to do with rights of navigation and defense.

The senior Senator from Illinois would like for us to disclaim title to the subsoil in Lake Michigan. Does he contend that the Government would lose its rights of navigation and defense?

The senior Senator from Wyoming would have us disclaim title to the river beds and harbors. Does he contend the Government would lose its paramount rights to navigation and defense over all navigable streams, rivers and harbors? Of course not, and the same is applicable to the marginal lands of the coastal states.

Mr. Long. The proposal has been occasionally called an interim proposal and a compromise proposal. Actually, it is neither. If it passes as it stands at this moment —

Mr. Smathers. Did the Senator say "interim" or "enter in"? It appears to me to be an "enter in" proposal.

Mr. Long. The Senator is correct. If the resolution passes in its present form it would simply mean that the Federal Government would take over the lands of States within the 3 mile limit. It has been stated that it is a compromise, but there is no compromise involved.

Mr. Smathers. It is a compromise such as the judge in New York will make with Willie Sutton, giving him either 80 years in prison or 75 years in prison.

Too Late To Classify

Russell Kay
There is something new under the political sun—the talkathon. Political campaigning has long needed a "shot in the arm." For as long as anyone can remember, aspiring candidates have followed the same old routine. Appeals for the most part kissing, hand-shaking. Radio talks followed the same dull pattern. Candidates for the most part feared public questioning. The smart campaigner rushed into town leading a motorcade, flags and banners waving, horns squeaking, made his set speech and then ducked out as quickly as possible. It was generally understood that voters, like children, should be "seen and not heard." Then along came Brailley Odham that he proposed to conduct a 24-hour radio talkathon during which he would personally answer any and every question that might be fired at him. Arrangements were made for the use of 11 Dade County radio stations starting at 8:00 p. m. with a battery of telephone girls taking questions as fast as they came in, he gave each a prompt answer. He didn't seem to have a duck or dodge. Although he didn't know what the next question would be, he always was ready with the answer.

Opponents tried to laugh off the talkathon as a cheap publicity stunt. Listeners assumed that it was just "another one of those things." Local papers didn't give it much of a play. Curious listeners tuned in the program. They got a kick out of it. This guy Odham meant what he said. He really was answering questions and FAST. As the hours wore on and his talk continued, thousands called friends and urged them to listen. More and more people came pouring in and better still a lot of them carried pledges of from $1 to $250 toward the Odham campaign. So successful was the broadcast, it was decided to repeat it in the Tampa-Clearwater-St. Petersburg area.

Here the program was expanded; the talkathon would begin in Tampa at 8:00 p. m. then move to St. Petersburg at 7:00 a. m. the next morning, and return to Tampa at 4:00 p. m. that afternoon to wind up at 8:00 p. m. Mobile units would be employed to keep it going as the candidate traveled between the two points.

Not since the Kefauver hearing in Tampa has public interest been as aroused as it was over the Odham talkathon. Crowds gathered to see his start and many remained through the night. Many who had turned out the program earlier in the evening turned in again and stayed until the wee small hours of the morning. It developed all the earmarks of an old time revival service. As the amazing program progressed public interest increased. It was an audience participation show and folks liked it. Listeners followed the candidate as he kept the show going while traveling from Tampa to St. Petersburg. Telephone operators' cranks were writing down questions and recording donations. The live audience increased as more and more people drove down to see for themselves if one man could stand up under such a physical strain. The candidate, although weary, spoke in a voice and assistants thrilled the crowd with frequent announcements of substantial donations that totaled into the thousands as the 8:00 p. m. closing hour approached.

Just before the scheduled close of the 24-hour program, one of the stations phoned to advise that they could clear an extra half hour if the candidate wished to use it. He did, and have been colorless—long-winded speeches, promises, prepared talks. Chest thumping, blarney the show went on. Then another station offered another half hour and this was followed with another half hour. It was unbelievable, Brailley Odham had broadcast without let-up for a total of 25 and one-half hours. He had answered 5,100 questions, taken in over $4,000 in contributions and had reached more people effectively and impressively than had ever been reached by any other candidate in so short a time in the state's political history.

Political observers, who make a business of feeling the public pulse, estimated that Odham made 20,000 votes with his talkathon. How many he switched from other candidates is only a guess, but many who phoned in said they had been for someone else but liked the Odham courage and fighting spirit and were now in his corner. A listener sent in $24. one dollar for each hour of the talkathon and suggested that others do likewise; as a result, over 50 such contributions came in during the last two hours of the program. A school teacher who said she didn't have that kind of money said she would contribute $1 for each additional half hour Odham talked. She sent $3; others followed her lead. It was nothing short of an old time revival. Plans are being made to repeat the talkathon in Orlando and Jacksonville.

J. B. Hodges Qualifies For Dem. Nat. Commitment

J. B. Hodges, practicing attorney of Lake City, announced that he has qualified and is seeking election as Democratic National Committeeman. He is a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from Columbia County and has long been active in Democratic Party affairs.

There is a need for greater cooperation between the National Committeeman and the members of the State Democratic Executive Committee. Hodges said. "When I am elected I shall at all times endeavor to maintain close contact between the State group and the National Committee." He added whether he had expressed a preference as to a presidential candidate, he stated, "It is my duty to render my coverage as a member of the State Committee to support the Democratic nominees. I think that the wishes of the people of the State of Florida will be adequately expressed by the presidential ballot in the primaries and I intend to follow the expressed wish of the people. This is the Democratic Way."

He is a lifelong resident of Columbia County, attended the University of Florida and Stetson University. He received his law degree from the University of Florida in 1940 and has been engaged in the active practice of law at Lake City since that time. He is a member of Phi Alpha Delta Honorary Law Fraternity and Kappa Sigma Social Fraternity.

Hodges is past president of the Lake City Kiwanis, and is a Lieutenant Governor of the Northern Division of the State. He is a former City Judge, member of the Florida Legislature and a Past Exalted Ruler of BPOE 893. In connection with his professional activities he has served as Secretary of the Third Judicial Circuit Bar Association, member of the Board of Governors of the Florida Bar and is now a member of the Board of Directors of the Negligence Section of the State Bar Association. His family consists of a wife and two children, a girl 9 and a boy 5, all of whom are affiliated with the Baptist Church.

Last week Hodges issued a request to all members of the State Committee to sponsor schools for election officials in each county of the state, so that they may become familiar with the new election law. He was active in sponsoring such a school in Columbia four years ago.

He has appointed as his campaign treasurer Miss Winifred Smith of Lake City and has designated the State Exchange Bank of Lake City as his depository.

SAFETY PRACTICES AND FIRST AID ARE HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO FARMERS

While safety measures and a knowledge of first aid are so important to all they mean more to people on the farm than to any other group.

There are several reasons for the extraordinary need for safety and first aid on the farm. Comparatively distant from the heavy traffic and noise of city streets, the quiet farm with its fields and trees and flocks is a peaceful "safe-looking" place, but it is not immune from accident. The farmer works outdoors with tools, machines, and animals that are capable of injuring him if he is not careful in handling them, and, unfortunately, many farmers are hurt every year in their work.

So it is highly important for the farmer and his family to practice safety at all times to avoid accidents that may cause suffering and also seriously interfere with their farm work, much of which requires physical effort.

Generally speaking, city folks can obtain professional medical attention very quickly after they have been hurt because of their proximity to hospitals and doctor's offices, but it is not this way for many farm people. Farm people usually live several miles from a hospital or doctor's office, and skillful medical men the saving of a life under such circumstances on the farm. When immediate efforts are needed to save a life, first aid will do it until professional medical treatment can be obtained.

In cases such as a deep wound where control of bleeding is important, a heart attack, snake bite, serious burns, and electric shock, first aid treatment promptly administered, may prevent loss of life. Therefore, a knowledge of first aid is of great importance to all farm people.

A first aid kit containing such things as bandages, adhesive tape, a good antiseptic, sterile cotton, and tourniquet materials should be available in every farm home.

It is indeed gratifying that many Florida home demonstration club women are studying safety and first aid on the farm, and it is hoped that more and more rural women will learn about these matters. The more they learn about safety and first aid, the smaller number of accidents and serious injuries there will be on Florida farms.

SIMPSON SAYS FLORIDA FARMERS SHOULD WATCH AGAINST STOCK DISEASE

In view of the existence of foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico and Canada, Florida farmers will do well to keep a close eye on their cattle and hogs, according to Dr. Charles Simpson of the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

To Make The Good Earth GLADES Better Is Our Business

Fortunately, this destructive disease has not been found in the United States in recent years, but we must be vigilant against it if we are to keep it out of our country," the Experiment Station veterinarian declared. "The recent outbreak in Canada was the second in that country's history, and reports indicate that it was taken there by a man who had worked with infected cattle in Germany."

Dr. Simpson pointed out that the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry is urging all farmers to be on the lookout for foot-and-mouth disease in this country. "Everyone is hoping it will not show up in the United States," he said, "but if it were to, the sooner discovered, the more quickly it could be stamped out."

All Florida farmers, he emphasized should be familiar with symptoms of the disease and should report any animals they may suspect of having it to their county agent, the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, State Live Stock Sanitary Board, or the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

He listed these symptoms of foot-and-mouth disease: Blisters on tongue, about the mouth, on skin above hoofs and between toes of foot, on teats and udders of cattle, and on snouts of swine. Such blisters usually rupture within 24 hours after developing and form red, granular erosions.

Fever and salivary accompaniment early symptoms. Fever lesions cause lameness. Affected animals eat and drink with great difficulty and lose weight rapidly. Milk flow is sharply reduced. Pregnant animals may abort, and breeding animals may be rendered sterile.

GOLD DORROW THEATRE NAMED LAKE DRIVE IN

Construction was proceeding ahead of schedule on the outdoor theatre, named the Lake Drive-In, this week, according to the Gold Dorrow management.

Located on Highway 441 between here and Pahokee, the theatre will be the first of its kind in the Glades.

This week contractors rolled and graded base rock for the roadways and are now grading car ramps. When finished, the roadways will be surfaced with black top.

He said curbs have been installed on the north side of the street from Main to S. E. 2nd and the department is planning to install them on the south side. The commission authorized the department to negotiate the necessary land donations.

He also reported that the plan to make Ave. B a 60-foot street to the Palm Beach Road is being halted by refusal of certain property owners to make dedications.

Chief Charles Goodlett said that the Chamber of Commerce objects to installing street signs deviating from the standard design which are being made by the city. He said the organization objects on the grounds that visitors and tourists in the city will fail to recognize the signs.

"I understand that the State Road Department is supposed to furnish all signs for streets entering into a state road, and I will check on this when department engineer arrives here to check traffic lights," he said.

The commissioners generally agreed to table the matter for further consideration.

On the recommendation of Goodlett, the commission approved the increase of $15 over the base pay for Patrolman Hilton Bonard on the basis of his past experience on the force.

Goodlett said the Civil Service Board failed to recognize the increase allowed in the regulations for past experience. The patrolman's appointment also was confirmed.

Reporting on the objection of Fritz Stein, Chosen, to the smoke from the city dump in Chosen and his colored workers' camp, B. W. Willis told the commission that Stein stated the dump suffers from the condition continuously, not just under certain wind directions. He said that Stein recommended that the city purchase a disposal unit within its own limits of the land fill or incinerator type.

In answer to an objection of an apartment tenant, Milton Burrow on paying the garbage collection fee, the commission ordered the collectors be made for last quarter and the present quarter. The body specified that the two tenants cause one garbage can.

EVERGLADES LEGION POST

(Continued from Page 1) the importance of religious training of children. The commander pointed out that through its nationwide organization, the American Legion is able to keep abreast of child welfare needs throughout the country, and to develop services and legislative programs to cope with ever-changing problems.

April is observed annually as "Child Welfare Month," he explained, in order to focus public attention upon the needs of all children, and particularly upon the importance of religious training.

One of the main principles of the American Legion's child welfare program is the preservation of the American family home, the commander said. In order to carry out this principle, the American Legion throughout the nation spends five to seven million dollars each year, primarily in emergency work, to help keep families together during times of economic crisis.

In addition, state and national legislation is supported which will achieve this same end. "Now," the commander concluded, "we are also beginning an educational campaign with the theme that the family which prays together stays together. We know that a strong, personal faith in God is the greatest stabilizing force in the world, not only for individual families, but for our whole nation."

VETERANS INFORMATION AND SERVICE

By Melvin T. Dixon
"WHEEL CHAIR" HOMES—Did you know that seriously disabled veterans of World War II or veterans of Korean Service who served after June 27, 1950, may be entitled to grant from VA for a "wheel chair" home, especially adapted to their needs?

These veterans must be entitled to compensation for permanent and total service-connected disability for the loss, or loss of use, of both legs due to certain specified conditions.

The provisions of the law have been liberalized to include disabled veterans for loss, or loss of use, by reason of amputation, ankylosis, progressive muscular dystrophy or paralysis of both lower extremities, such as to prevent him from moving about without the aid of braces, crutches, canes or a wheel chair.

Eligible veterans will receive a Federal grant of not more than $5 per cent of the cost of the home or a minimum of $10,000 with which to buy or build a new home, or to remodel an existing home for their requirements.

The grant also may be used to pay off the indebtedness on such a special home already acquired by an eligible veteran. Also eligible under this law are veterans of war or space-time service in the Armed Forces since April 21, 1898, who have a permanent-total, service-connected disability due to spinal cord disease or injury resulting in paralysis of the legs and the lower part of the body.

for military service because of general diseases. Rapid treatment centers have been in operation at various times at Ocala, Wakulla, Pensacola and Deer Lake, until the treatment program was consolidated at the Melbourne center in 1947. Dr. Sower said that in 1940 there were 19,966 syphilis cases reported. By 1943 the annual figure had reached 35,249 as reported and investigation methods were tightened up. From that date, the number of cases reported hit a downward trend, reaching a low of 9,409 for the 12 months of 1951.

Similar declines were noted for gonorrhea.

ELLIS ARNALL PUTS OPS COST TO NATION AT .38 PER CATITA

The war against inflation took the nation only 36 cents per gallon last year, Ellis Arnall, Director of the Office of Price Stabilization, has revealed.

Arnall's first report to the nation since becoming national price administrator in Washington and released in Miami by John E. Neel, acting district director of the South Florida OPS, said the OPS employed an average of 7,405 persons and spent a total of $55,703,558 in 1951.

In his report the former Georgia governor stated it is a good thing to let the public know about the operations of the agencies of their government. I have been impressed by the fact that the OPS program of stabilizing prices cost each American only 36 cents last year.

On the basis of the most conservative estimate of what would have happened to prices if control had not been in effect, each man, woman and child in the nation was saved many, many times the cost to them of the stabilizing program."

Referring to the accomplishments to date in the stabilization field, Arnall said:

"As important as is the Congressional act creating the OPS and providing for direct price controls, there were other factors entering into the successful fight to hold the line.

"Increased production relieved some of the inflationary pressure. The American people demonstrated again their own good judgment as they voluntarily increased their savings and exercised restraint in buying. Credit restrictions, taxes, controls on production and controls on wages were effective along with price controls."

"Nevertheless, the wave of panic-buying, speculation and frenzied price increases stopped when the OPS price freeze in 1951."

RESTAURANT TO POST CEILING PRICE LISTS

Beginning April 7, all restaurants and other eating establishments in South Florida will be required to post dollar-and-cents ceiling prices for principal meals, food items, and beverages.

John E. Neel, acting district director of the South Florida Office of Price Stabilization, announced that the new OPS regulation will freeze restaurant prices at the level shown on menus or charged during the week of February 2-9, 1952.

Neel said the district office in Miami is now sending out posters which must be displayed not later than April 25, 1952, by restaurants in a place where they will be easily visible to customers.

However, the director explained that eating places must maintain at least the same quality and quantity of servings in all their meals, food items and beverages. They also must offer the same number of courses in their meals.

An eating place may not vary the entire of a meal for which a ceiling price has been established; but they may vary the vegetable or other items in the meal so long as they maintain at least the same standard of quality and quantity.

These frozen prices, with permitted adjustments by operators who have been charging need for fertilizers.

lower than permitted under the present restaurant regulation. Ceiling Price Regulation 11, will be the dollars-and-cents ceilings which restaurants will post.

The posted prices may be changed in the future only by direction of the OPS, under the new regulation, if the director determines that food and other costs have changed significantly, either upward or downward.

For most eating places, Neel said, the new regulation will replace CPR 11 which has permitted restaurants to adjust their menu prices so long as they gave the same percentage of food value per dollar of sales over a four-month accounting period as they did before Korea.

TB Patient Can Be Confined Against Will

The state supreme court has ruled that a person with active tuberculosis may be confined against his will in a state hospital.

It refused to order the release of Donald Moore, now confined against his will at the south-west hospital in Tampa. The Florida law provides for forcible commitment where those with an active stage of the disease refuse to have it treated.

The natural fertility of the soil, whether it was rich or poor in the beginning, is an important factor in determining the results which have been achieved.
